Erie County Offices Re-Open to the Public

Effective July 1, most Erie County buildings will re-open to the public. This includes the downtown Sandusky Office Building at 247 Columbus Avenue, and the Services Center campus at 2900 Columbus Avenue in Perkins Township. Entrance to the downtown Sandusky Office Building will be from Washington Row only.

The Courthouse, Sheriff's Office, and County Court have remained open to the public. The Department of Job and Family Services will re-open to the public on July 13. If you are unsure of other offices, please contact them by telephone regarding their availability. The Title Office will be taking their last customers at 3:15 pm until further notice.

For your safety and our employees, we still prefer County business be conducted by telephone, other remote means, or by appointment. For those who must enter a building, we will be following the Ohio Department of Health's "Responsible Restart Ohio" guidelines for general offices.

Face coverings are a must for entering a County building; so please bring your own. Social distancing of at least 6 feet will be observed. If you are sick or having any COVID-19 symptoms, you cannot enter a County building. Any gathering of 10 or more people is prohibited. Employees will be sanitizing work and common areas throughout the day. Please remember, these measures are in place for everyone's health and safety.

Thank you for your patience and flexibility during this time. We are committed to providing the best possible service to all Erie County residents.
